

John D. (Jack) Campbell
Chief Financial Officer

Jack Campbell is the Chief Financial Officer of Africare and has been responsible for Africare finances since June 2004. He brings 40 years of finance and audit experience to Africare. He is responsible for all aspects of financial operations including contracting, reporting, budgeting, accounting, internal controls, audits and fund raising.

Prior to joining Africare, Mr. Campbell spent 23 years with the American Red Cross. Most of that time was spent as their Chief Financial Officer, directing all aspects of financial operations for the $3 billion charity. Early in his Red Cross career, he established their internal audit function and directed the accounting operation. He was responsible for the consolidation of six major accounting functions into one shared services center in Charlotte, NC, servicing all blood services and headquarters fiscal operations. The cost savings and efficiencies created by this effort amounted to $2 million annually. Prior to the Red Cross, Mr. Campbell was a manager with Deloitte & Touche.

Mr. Campbell received his Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting from Virginia Tech and is a Certified Public Accountant. He has chaired or participated in various committees responsible for developing non-profit accounting standards, including the Financial Accounting Standards Board. He was recently recognized by SmartCEO magazine as one of the top CFO's in the Washington DC area.
